

Dr Nidhi Gupta

Correspondence: Coroner's Court

My understanding at that point in time was physiotherapy was needed but that it wasn't urgent, but I have heard Dr Stümper's evidence yesterday and it may have been that my consultant meant something different to what I interpreted.

Q. So when you say your consultant you mean Dr Stümper.

A. That's right.

I must say that when I retrospectively reviewed the notes for the root cause analysis and subsequently for the inquest, I did note that we hadn't really reflected that the oxygen requirement was 0.75 litres and it had gone up from 0.2, 0.3. We had more looked at 0.5 and kind of accepted that.

MASSIVE CONSOLIDATION

Monday 9 November 2009

"Hayley's chest x-ray showed worsening bilateral changes".

"Massive consolidation left lung".

"Volume loss right lung".

Massive consolidation doesn't suddenly appear. Can you tell me how long did it take for Hayley's lungs to get in that state?

Why was Hayley's physio deferred to the next day?

Her lung collapsed on Tuesday 10 November 2009 at 1.30 am.

Could you have prevented this?

Why did SHO Niddi tell us "it wasn't serious and there was no need for concern".

Gas OK blinded us.

explained how angry she felt, and she felt that nobody had listened to her and that she just wanted people to listen to her and that she was sorry for having been rude. The discussion was very difficult for Nidhi and very upsetting.

Note: Mum stated staff didn't listen.
